

ALTUSCIO NETWORKS COMPLETES CONSOLIDATION OF MERGED COMPANIES AND INTEGRATION OF NEW TECHNOLOGIES TO ENHANCE CUSTOMER SERVICE AND MANAGED IT SERVICES

(Atlanta, GA) January 06, 2010. Altuscio Networks (Altuscio), an Atlanta-based full service Information Technology (IT) company supporting small and medium sized business throughout the greater Atlanta area, announced the completion of the consolidation of Indigo Technologies, LLC (Indigo) and Your Computer Guy, Inc. (YCG) respectively. Combined business operations and a number of new technologies are now fully integrated and the company is continuing to focus on providing an even greater level of IT support and customer service to its expanded customer base, utilizing a broader and more refined product suite.

According to Mr. Silliman, "During the second half of 2010 we were focused behind the scenes on consolidating the operations of the merged companies to further improve our ability to provide superior service to our clients, while also getting to know our new customers and working with them so they could get to know us. At the same time we significantly upgraded our back office and technical operations technologies to better handle workflow, service requests, procurement, billing and so forth; which came with a bit of a learning curve and took longer to fully deploy than anticipated. Now that we have completed this growth phase, we look forward to focusing all of our efforts on servicing our client's needs and further enhancing our product suites to best serve our customers."

Tom Raymond, VP Sales & Development states, "Now that we have all of our new support systems running smoothly the tech staff and the rest of our team can simply concentrate on making sure our client's needs are handled proactively as always while we continue to deliver the high level of dedicated service our customer have come to expect over the years. All of us are very happy that the "growth period" is behind us and that we are finally be able to focus solely on our customers."
